TE Console and Agent Component Versions

This article applies to all supported versions of Tripwire Enterprise

Tripwire Enterprise Console requires a separate install of Java. As Java updates are more frequent than TE Console releases, TE has been tested only with specific versions of Java listed in this article. Although your TE Console may work with a higher version of Java than mentioned below, the officially tested version is designed to work without any issues.

The TE Console contains a highly customized version of Apache Tomcat, which is used to provide GUI for TE Console. The article lists the version of Apache Tomcat used in a specific TE Console release. Also listed in the table is a pre-bundled Java SE or OpenJDK version which shipped with TE Agent.

Axon Agent is an alternative Agent which does not run on Java. It also is much more resilient and lighter compared to standard Java based Agent.

NOTE: Please see Updating Java for Tripwire Enterprise Console section of Tripwire Enterprise Hardening Guide for details on upgrading Java components. The guide is available for download in Documentation section of Downloads page in Tripwire Customer Center.

For more details on TE releases please refer to Release Notes available for download in Documentation section of Downloads page in Tripwire Customer Center. If you still have any questions or comments feel free to contact Tripwire Support directly.

NOTE: As of 8.6.0.1, Tripwire Enterprise Agents no longer share a version number with TE Console. Instead, the first 3 digits of the Agent version indicate the minimum TE Console version with which the Agent is compatible. For example, the TE Agents released with TE Console 8.6.1 are version 8.6.0.1, indicating that are backward compatible to TE Console 8.6.0. Below is a chart of Java and Axon Agent information.
